PREFACE.

THE design of this volume is to embrace a succinct history of the Haines family from the earliest period, with the genealogy of the New Jersey branch, commencing with its immediate progenitor, Richard Haynes, of the Parish of Aynhoe, Northamptonshire, England, who with his family sailed from the Downs, April, 1682, for the western parts; together with the Sharp, Wills, Collins, Moore, Eves, Evans, Prickitt, Gardiner, Troth, Borton and Engle families.

It is not our purpose to give the families complete in all their branches (as that would be impossible), but such parts of them as have been collected and traced out.

In tracing the line of ancestry, records have been the authority principally; and if errors occur where tradition has been relied upon, we leave them to be corrected by those who may follow us with a revised and enlarged edition. In compiling this volume we have ever regarded the scrupulousness manifested by the late George Haines, M. D., in collecting the matter herein contained, as well as that of his nephew, the late George Haines, who so ably assisted him.

In introducing this volume to the public, where it must come before the eye of the critic, we have no apology to offer; feeling that we have simply done that which was required at our hands in memory of him who in departing leaves a void which time alone can efface.

HAINES FAMILY.

Early History of the Family.

The original name of the Haines family was Hayne, and is said to be of Saxon origin. And as we have no evidence to the contrary, we must locate the family in the early part of the sixth century in Devonshire, in the kingdom of the West Saxons—the third kingdom of the heptarchy, founded by Cerdic, in 519—which comprised the counties of Cornwall, Devon, Dorset, Somerset, Wilts, Hants and Berks; as the followers of Hengist and Horsa, brothers, who were the leaders of the Saxons, whom Vortigern, Governor of South Britain, invited to assist him in repelling the invading Scots and Picts from North Britain, and who finally became conquerors of South Britain and established the heptarchy.

With whatever semblance of truth we may regard the family as followers of Hengist and Horsa, we must concede that that epoch was the most probable and favorable one prior to William the Conqueror for the establishment of the family in South Britain.

And as he found the family to be an old established landmark upon his arrival in England, in the eleventh century, 1066, it would be only a reasonable conclusion that they were the followers of the conquering Saxons, and became possessed of their large landed estates as followers in the Saxon conquest.

And as a further confirmation to the claim of priority to William the Conqueror in South Britain by the family, he caused the Norman tongue or language to be established and known as the national dialect; consequently, if the name is Saxon, it is conclusive evidence that the family was not among his followers, but preceded him, and established prior to him the old Saxon landmarks, "Hayne River," "Hayne Castle" and "Hayne Tower," as claimed by the family in the following history, by John Haines, of Totness, Devonshire, England.

"William, upon his arrival in England, found the family settled 'in 'Hayne,' in the Parish of Stowford, near the Tamar, on the "borders of Cornwall. They existed as a clan, and were possessed of immense tracts of land in Devonshire and Cornwall. "There was a castle on their lands called 'Hayne Castle,' which name the modern mansion still retains, from the ancient ruins near it. There is also a river called 'Hayne' running into the Tavy, and a tower on Dartmoor called 'Hayne Tower.' So it appears even at that time the family was one of importance in the country. William took one-half of their lands, which he gave to his followers, the other half was entered in Domesday Book as the property of the 'Clan Haineses.' Since that time the family continued of importance, as many of their chiefs filled the office of High Sheriff of the county—an office at that time of great importance, as the incumbent was the representative of the King, led the yeomen of the country to battle, and was the head of the county. This continued until 1600, when the estate devolved on an only daughter, Tameson Haines, who married a man by the name of Harris, of Cornwall, who was likewise upon his marriage made High Sheriff of the county. From that time until 1870, the property remained in the Harris family, who were known by the name of Harris of Hayne; when it was sold to pay debts incurred by that family. It also appears that at the time of the marriage of Tameson Haines, a disruption of the family took place; they feeling that their head was gone and a stranger seated in the halls of their fathers; and this was also undoubtedly assisted by religious differences, which at that time began to creep into families."

Certain it is, however, in the early part of the seventeenth century, we find the family widely separated. In 1633, we find among the two hundred passengers of the "Griffin," which arrived in the New England Colonies in that year, one Haynes, "a man of very large estate, and larger affections; of a heavenly mind and a spotless life; of rare sagacity, and accurate but unassuming judgment; by nature tolerant, ever a friend to freedom, ever conciliating peace; an able legislator; dear to the people by his benevolent virtues and his disinterested conduct;" who was one of the New England branch of the family, and Governor of Massachusetts in 1635. Bancroft, Vol. 1, page 362.

We also find the family in Northamptonshire, England, from whence came Richard Haines, the immediate progenitor of that branch of the family known as the New Jersey branch. It will be seen from the foregoing history that the original name was Hayne, that the orthography was changed at the time of compiling Domesday Book, which William the Conquerer caused to be done upon his accession to the throne of England.

In the records in New Jersey, as elsewhere, we find the name written Haines and Haynes, some retaining the letter "y," and all adding the letter "s."

The family Bible of William Haines, the third son of Richard Haines, the progenitor of the family in New Jersey—which is at the present time in the possession of his descendants—has the name written Haynes for the first three generations, yet in the record of his marriage, at Burlington, the name is written Haines.

The four eldest sons of Richard Haines—John, Richard, William and Thomas—together with others, were the pioneer settlers of the Western Province of New Jersey, and located and became possessed of large tracts of land in New Jersey and elsewhere, and died seized of large landed estates.

The pedigrees connected with the armorial ensigns run back to 607. There are, however, only some four or five of these ancient coats of the Haines family, although Burke gives some thirty; but most of them are of modern origin. Some of them are without any motto, while quite a large number have mottoes used by different members of the various branches of the family. The coat that was confirmed, in 1578, to William Haynes, of London, and Nicholas Haynes, of Hackney, sons of Richard and Thomazine Haynes, of Reading, has been used by the Copford Hall Essex Branch, represented by Gen. Hezekiah Haynes, son of Gov. John Haynes, of Essex, England, and New England, U. S. A., and by the present General, Sir Fredrick P. Haines, G. C. B., of the British army.

Gen. James Haynes, who captured the Island of Jersey under Cromwell, and was its governor in 1655, used upon his seal attached to official papers, the same arms as the Shropshire and Montgomery family of Haineses.

His coat was the golden eagle displayed, standing upon a tortoise. He used no motto. Mottoes are generally modern and mostly of the bearer's fancy. The family in New Jersey have three or four of these coats, and some fifteen descriptions of others. The two accompanying illustrations are the two above described. The one used by the present General, Sir Frederick P. Haines, G. C. B., of the British army, and the one used by Gen. James Haynes, of the Shropshire and Montgomery families.

comes to us, it cannot be doubted. Be it as it may, however, she was said to be a good housewife, and a very capable woman. "She acquired the art of writing and rudimentary English branches, and was said to be very useful in the community on that account." Richard Haines appointed her and his daughter, Elizabeth Newbery, "executors" of his will, showing the esteem he had of her ability, and she was said to be "very useful in the meeting, as she was so ready with her pen."

Sarah Paine, the wife of <sup>2</sup>William Haines, was the daughter of John Paine, of Burlington, New Jersey, the progenitor of the Paine family in New Jersey.

Elizabeth Austin, the wife of <sup>2</sup>Thomas Haines, was the sister of Francis Austin, the progenitor of the Austin family, who married Mary Borton, the daughter of John Borton and Ann, the progenitors of the Borton family.

Dorothy ———, the first wife of <sup>2</sup>Joseph Haines, nothing relative to her family is known. Elizabeth Thomas, the second wife, was the daughter of James Thomas, of Whiteland, Chester County, Pennsylvania, who arrived at Nottingham, Maryland, 1st month 1st, 1721.

There appears to have been very little communication of his descendants with the Haines family in New Jersey. He had a very large family of children, the descendants of whom greatly exceed those of any of his brothers.

Some of the descendants may probably be able to trace their line back so as to connect it with what we have been able to get of the family, that was to be relied upon.

THE WILL OF JONATHAN HAINES.

Let it be recorded, that I, Jonathan Haines, of the Township of Evesham, in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, Yeoman, being at this time sick and weak of body, but of sound disposing mind and memory, thanks be given unto Almighty God for the same, and being desirous that what temporal estate it hath pleased the Almighty to bless me with in this life shall come unto such person or persons as I shall hereinafter nominate and appoint, hereby revoking and making void all former and other wills by me made, either by word or writing, and this only to be taken for the same as followeth: Imprimis—In the first place, I order all my just debts and funeral charges to be paid out of my personal estate as soon as convenient after my decease. Item—I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Hannah Haines, all the remainder of my personal estate, be it whatsoever it may, to be enjoyed by her as soon as is convenient after my decease, except ten pounds to be taken out of the same, which I give and bequeath to the Upper Meeting of Friends, of Evesham, to be paid to the overseers of the said meeting in one year after my decease, and to be applied to such use for the benefit of said meeting as the Friends of said meeting shall direct. Item—I give and devise unto my two sons, namely, Jacob and Josiah, all that my piece of cedar swamp lying at or near a place called “Roberts Meadow,” to be equally divided between them according to quantity and quality, one moiety thereof to hold to my son, Jacob Haines, his heirs and assigns forever. Item—As my son, Josiah Haines, hath heretofore been provided for, I pass him by, only I order my two sons, Isaac and Nehemiah Haines, to pay unto him thirty shillings each out of the lands I shall hereafter devise to them. Item—I give and devise unto my son, Jacob Haines, a certain part of my plantation whereon I now dwell, lying at the lower end or most northerly part of my plantation, computed to be about one hundred and twenty acres, more or less, which is divided off by a line now run between the same and land hereafter devised to my son, Nehemiah Haines, which line begins at a hickory tree now marked, standing by the westerly side of the southerly branch of the Rancocas Creek, and runs from thence north sixty-six degrees and fifteen minutes west, seventeen chains and twenty-seven links to a stone in Josiah Foster's line, corner to land hereafter devised to my son, Nehemiah Haines, all which land lying to the lowermost or northerly side of the above said line, with the buildings and appurtenances thereunto belonging, I give and devise to my son, Jacob Haines, to hold to him, his heirs and assigns forever; he paying out of the same to my daughter Hannah Haines, the sum of forty pounds in one year after my decease. Item—I give and devise unto my son Nehemiah Haines one other part of my plantation whereon is the old mansion house. Beginning at a stone in Josiah Foster's line, corner to the land before devised to my son Jacob; thence along said Foster's line south seventeen degrees and fifteen minutes west, twelve chains and eighty-four links to a stone by the edge of the meadow in said Foster's line, corner to land hereafter devised to my son Isaac Haines; thence the six following courses and distances is the division line between Nehemiah and Isaac Haines: First along the meadow side south, sixty-one degrees east, four chains and fifty-seven links to a stone; thence crossing the meadow (2) south ten degrees and five minutes west, four chains and twenty-five links to a stone; thence (3) north eighty-three degrees and twenty minutes west, four chains and twenty-one links to a walnut sapling on the hill by the corner of the old orchard; thence (4) south, about seven degrees east, twenty-four chains and thirty links to a stone in the field; thence (5) south, twenty-two degrees and thirty minutes west, seven chains and forty links to a stone corner to land of said Josiah Foster; thence (6) south, ten degrees and forty-five minutes east, thirty-two chains and eighty-three links to a stone in the line of William Foster's land, about one chain and thirty-eight links from William Foster's hickory corner by the aforesaid branch of Rancocas Creek; thence bounding down said creek the several courses to the hickory marked by the said creek hereinbefore mentioned for a beginning corner to land devised to my son Jacob; thence, along by the same to the stone first mentioned, containing about one hundred and forty acres of land, be the same more or less, together with the buildings, improvements and appurtenances, to hold to him, my said son Nehemiah Haines, and to his heirs and assigns forever, he paying thereout unto my daughter, Hannah Haines, the sum of fifty pounds in one year after my decease. Item—Whereas, my son Isaac, Samuel Phillips and myself, sometime past built a new grist mill on the land included within, the bounds of land hereinbefore devised to my son Nehemiah, and each one of us was entitled to one-third part of the profits arising from the same, with being at equal expense of costs for repairs; it is now my will and I do hereby order that Samuel Phillips, his heirs and assigns, shall enjoy the same in every respect as formerly, so long as the same should be kept up; and as my sons Isaac Haines and Nehemiah Haines have built a new saw mill near to said grist mill, I do hereby order and give sufficient yard-room for both mills so long as the same should be thought proper to be kept up, to be enjoyed equally in every respect between my sons Isaac and Nehemiah Haines, to hold to them and their separate heirs and assigns forever, notwithstanding the above devise to Nehemiah Haines. Item—I give and devise unto my son Isaac Haines, the remainder of any plantation whereupon I now dwell, to begin at the stone in Josiah Foster's line by the edge of the meadow, mentioned in the above devise to Nehemiah Haines, then the same six courses and distances following in said devise to a stone in the line of William Foster's land, about one chain and thirty-eight links from Foster's hickory corner by the creek; thence it is bounded by William and Josiah Foster's land to the stone first mentioned, computed to be about one hundred and nineteen acres of land and premises, with the buildings, improvements and appurtenances, be the same more or less, to hold to him, my said son Isaac Haines, and to his heirs and assigns forever; he paying thereout unto my granddaughter, Sarah Collins, the sum of fifty pounds, when she arrives at the age of eighteen years. Item—Whereas, I am now seized of one equal fourth part of all that tract of pine land and saw mill, well-known by the name of "Prickett's Mill Tract," situate in Evesham aforesaid, which said fourth part of said tract of land and saw mill I give and devise unto my two sons, Isaac Haines and Nehemiah Haines, to be equally possessed and enjoyed by them till a division shall be made, and to hold to them, my said sons Isaac and Nehemiah Haines, one moiety to Isaac, his heirs and assigns, the other moiety to Nehemiah, his heirs and assigns, they paying out of the same two hundred pounds to my daughter Hannah, in the following manner: That is, Isaac Haines to pay her one hundred pounds in two years after my decease, and Nehemiah paying her the like sum in three years after my decease. Item—Whereas I have given unto my sons, Isaac and Nehemiah Haines, my tract of land and saw mill, called "Prickitt's Mill Tract," it is my will, and I do hereby give free liberty unto my sons, Jacob Haines and Josiah Haines, to cut timber on said tract of land, and saw the same at the mill, that they or either of them should want for the use of their own buildings during their natural lives, but not for them, or either of them, to cut any for sale, under any pretense whatsoever. Item—I do hereby nominate, constitute and appoint my two sons, Isaac Haines and Nehemiah Haines, and my son-in-law, Job Collins, executors of this my last Will and Testament.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty-third day of the tenth month (October), in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four (1784).

<sup>4</sup>John Haines, familiarly known as "Fostertown John Haines," was born in 1742, and well remembered his three great uncles, William, Thomas and Joseph, who came to America, and from whom he learned about their embarking for America, and the passage and arrival of the family at Burlington, N. J., and related the substance of the same to Joseph Haines, the son of Nehemiah and Abigail Haines (who lived upon a neighboring farm), which he entered upon a blank leaf in "Paradise Lost," as follows: "John, the eldest son of Richard and Margaret Haines, of 'Ayn-'hoe of ye Hill,' Northamptonshire, England, came to America 'some time before the family, and lived in a cave in 'Haines 'Bank,' below Lumberton, then sent an invitation for his father 'and his family to come, and they embarked for the Colonies in 'America—Richard and Margaret, and their children, Richard, 'William, Thomas, and the daughter Mary. They had a long and 'tedious voyage. Richard, the father, sickened and died, and 'Joseph (the fifth son), was born after the father's death in mid-'ocean. They arrived in Burlington in the latter part of the summer or in the fall of the year, and the widow married Henry 'Bircham, of Neshaminy, Pennsylvania, in 1685."

<sup>4</sup>John lived well on to the century mark, and his grandson, <sup>6</sup>Mark Haines, the son of <sup>4</sup>John's daughter <sup>5</sup>Mary, who married Core Haines, learned from his grandfather, <sup>4</sup>John, all about the family, which <sup>4</sup>John in his interviews with his great uncles, <sup>2</sup>William, <sup>2</sup>Thomas and <sup>2</sup>Joseph, had received from them. In an interview with <sup>6</sup>Mark Haines, a short time previous to his death, relative to what he had learned from his grandfather about <sup>2</sup>Mary, the daughter of <sup>1</sup>Richard Haines and <sup>1</sup>Margaret, he said: "His grandfather had never told him anything about her, and thought he had never learned anything of her." And what he had to say of the lineage of <sup>2</sup>Mary Carlile (the wife of <sup>2</sup>Richard Haines the second), was a duplicate of what our grandmother, Abigail Haines, told us, as told her by her father, Noah Haines, who knew about his grandmother's pedigree, "as allied by blood to Pocahontas."

After her husband's death she removed to London, and resided there, near her daughters, until her death, in 1898.

She was a woman of fine poetic taste, and a poetess of no mean ability; and a noted author.

The will of Mrs. Bloomfield Haines Moore was filed for probate in the Register of Wills Office, in Philadelphia. It is dated October 28th, 1898. The witnesses are C. Lervenhantz, Swedish and Norwegian Minister in London; James Cinchton Brown Knight, M. P., of London, and Elizabeth T. Haines, of Medford, New Jersey.

The will is as follows :

Clara Jessup Moore, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, United States of America, but now residing at No. 12 Great Stanhope street, Mayfair, in the County of London, widow, hereby revoke all former Wills and Testamentary dispositions made by me, and declare this to be my last Will and Testament. I appoint my grandson, Count Eugene Von Rosen, and Theodore Frothingham, of Philadelphia, to be my executors in the United States (hereinafter called my American executors), and I appoint the said Count Eugene Von Rosen, James Coleman Drayton, of Rogate, Sussex, and William Hitchins, of London, to be my executors in England, and to be trustees of this my will. I hereby declare it to be my wish, that the estate of my deceased husband, Bloomfield Haines Moore, shall devolve upon such persons as are entitled thereto under the provisions of this will and the laws of Pennsylvania. I bequeath to my grandson, Harold De Bildt, all my books, papers and manuscripts of a scientific nature, to be determined by my English executors. I bequeath to my maid, Sophia Wirtz, the sum of four hundred pounds. I also bequeath the following annuities to Louisa Lawanchy, formerly my daughter's governess, an annuity of £20 pounds during her life, commencing from my decease, to be payable in such manner as my trustees in their absolute discretion shall see fit. To my brother, Edward Jessup, I bequeath an annuity of £400 pounds during his life. I authorize my trustees at any time, if when they shall consider it convenient for the administration in distribution of my estate, or for any other reason, to purchase annuities in the names of the said annuitants, or in the name of my trustees, either from the government, or from some insurance and annuity company.

I devise all my real estate of every tenure, and all my personal estate of every kind in any part of the United States, unto my American executors, in trust, without any more delay than is consistent with the realization of reasonable prices, to sell and dispose of all said real and personal estate. I direct my American executors, as soon as possible after such sale, to remit to my English executors all money arising from said sale in America, except so much as shall be required for my debts in America and the expense of realizing my estate in America. The receipt of my English executors for all moneys remitted to them as aforesaid shall be a sufficient discharge for the same. I devise all my real estate of every tenure, and all my personal estate of every kind not hereby otherwise disposed of, and other what is hereinafter directed to be realized by my American executors, unto and to the use of the said Count Eugene Von Rosen, James Coleman Drayton and William Hitchins, their heirs, etc., respectively, according to the nature thereof, upon trust that my trustees shall sell, either by public auction or private contract, and call into and convert into money all the same or such part thereof as shall not consist of money, and shall stand possessed of the moneys produced by such sale and of all moneys remitted to my trustees by my American executors, as aforesaid. My trustees shall from said money provide and pay for my funeral and testamentary expenses, debts (except such as shall be paid by my American executors) and the legacies and annuities bequeathed by this my will, or any codicil hereto, free of duty, and shall stand possessed of the residue of such moneys in trust (in the first place) to pay each of the children of my late daughter, Ella Von Rosen, who shall be living at the time of my death, such a sum, with the amount which he or she shall receive or be entitled to from the estate of my said deceased husband, as will be equal in amount to one-sixth of such estate. But if this shall not be sufficient to fully satisfy the last preceding trust, then I declare that each such child shall take proportionately so far as the said money will extend, and if there shall be any residue after satisfying the aforesaid trusts, to divide the same between my grandchildren, the children of my two daughters, Ella Von Rosen and Lillian De Bildt, who shall be living at the time of my decease, in equal share per capita; and I declare that the three several sums of £20,000 pounds, or the equivalent thereof, which I have advanced to or for the benefit of each of my three grandchildren—Maud Haterman, Count Rheinland Von Rosen, and Count Clarence Von Rosen—shall be brought into account by them respectively, and to be taken towards or in satisfaction of the interests of such grandchildren under this my will. And I also declare that if any of my grandchildren shall die in my lifetime, leaving a child or children who shall survive me, then such child or children shall take equally between them the share which his, her or their parent would have taken if such parent had survived me. I also direct that any and every question as to the value of the shares of my grandchildren respectively of and in the estate of my deceased husband, or any other question which may arise respecting the mode of giving effect to the foregoing provisions, shall be determined by my trustees, whose decision shall be final and shall bind all persons entitled under this my will.

SHARP FAMILY.

WILLIAM SHARP and Thomas Sharp, brothers, the children of Francis Sharp, of Oak Lane, in the Parish of St. Ann Limehouse, County of Middlesex, England, and grandsons of Thomas Cooper, of 16 George street, in the Parish and County aforesaid, came to America with their families in the ship "Samuel," in the year 1682, and settled in what was at that time Evesham Township, Burlington County, New Jersey. The children that accompanied William and Thomas Sharp were John, William and Hugh Sharp. Tradition says they were brothers, and the children of William Sharp. Be that as it may, however, we find no records in our researches to confirm or disprove it; consequently we shall trace our line of ancestry to William Sharp as the father of the three children—John, William and Hugh Sharp—upon the tradition, as the progenitors of the Sharp family, who claim an English ancestry. We present to our readers the accompanying engraving, which is a fac simile of the record in John Sharp's Bible, the eldest son, in its present mutilated condition, with the following remarks. It is evident from the date of the publication of the Bible, in 1709, in London, by Charles Bill and the executors of Thomas Newcomb, which was some time after John Sharp came to this country, conclusively shows that the record was entered in the Bible from notes previously made elsewhere, and also accounts for the irregularity of some of the entries in the regular order of time. The Bible, it appears from the entries, came into the possession of William Sharp, the eldest son of John Sharp, upon his death; and there is a space of time, from when it passed out of the possession of the family of William Sharp, until it came into the possession of the family of Francis Haines (the grandfather of its present owner), during which its possession and whereabouts cannot be accounted for to a certainty. There are some relics to be found in the families of the descendants of William Sharp, which he brought with him, which are very quaint, and good specimens of Colonial days. Among them may be mentioned an eight-day clock, which is wound up without a key, and still marks the downward course of time accurately; a case of drawers, and a two-gallon bottle.

<sup>2</sup>John Sharp, son of <sup>1</sup>William Sharp and ———, from England, married Elizabeth Paine, 4-17, 1688, daughter of John Paine, Friends' Meeting, Burlington.

Hannah ———.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>5</sup>John, born 10-8, 1693; married Jane Fitchardall.<sup>1</sup>

Mary Austin, the first wife of <sup>3</sup>William Sharp, was the daughter of Francis Austin, the progenitor, and Mary Borton, the daughter of John Borton and Ann, the progenitors of the Borton family.

Jane Fitchardall, the first wife of <sup>3</sup>John Sharp, was of Irish lineage. The following is from Asa Matlack's notes: "On 2d day the 10th mo., 1832, attended the public vendue of Wm. Buzby's personal property, in Evesham, on the old plantation first purchased by Wm.'s father, Jabez Buzby. Here I met with Aaron Sharp, now in the 78th year of his age, who informed me that his grandfather married first to an Irish woman (he knew not her name), secondly to Ann Haines. They had as follows: Amos married Deborah Haines, John married Dinah Peacock, Samuel married Elizabeth Peacock."

Ann Haines, the second wife of <sup>3</sup>John Sharp, was the daughter of Thomas Haines and Elizabeth Austin, the sister of Francis Austin, the progenitor of the Austin family. Thomas was the fourth son of Richard Haines and Margaret, the progenitors of the Haines family.

Elizabeth Haines, the wife of <sup>3</sup>Samuel Sharp, was the daughter of Thomas Haines and Elizabeth Austin, the sister of Francis Austin, above. Thomas was the son of Richard Haines and Margaret, above.

It appears that <sup>2</sup>Hugh Sharp, soon after his marriage, went to Pennsylvania, and settled there. But from records relative to his real estate transactions, it would seem that he subsequently removed to New Jersey.

<sup>2</sup>John Sharp, the eldest son, settled in Evesham Township, on "twelve hundred and fifty acres of land adjoining Thomas Ballinger." He appears to have been a man frequently called upon in public business. We find "John Sharp and William Troth executors of Henry Mourley. Will and inventory proved April, 1714. Jacob Hewlings and William Evans, appraisers." They sold goods to the following persons at vendue: "Samuel Eves, Robert Braddock, Mark Stratton, Thomas Eves, Thomas Smith, Thomas Ballinger, William Sharp, William Troth, Felix Leeds, Richard Haines, John Jennings, John Sharp, John Woolston, and others."—From Bass Book of Certificates.

It may not be out of place to note here a discrepancy in the dates of the marriage of <sup>3</sup>John Sharp and Jane, the first wife, and Ann Haines, his second wife. The date of his marriage to Ann Haines is in the record of marriages, and the dates of the births of their children correspond. The notes say there were other children, names unknown. What Aaron Sharp, the grandson of John Sharp, told Asa Matlack, is a confirmation that the children named were the children of John Sharp and Ann Haines. See page 209. Consequently we must concede the error to be in the date of the marriage to Jane Fitchardall.

WILLS FAMILY.

DR. DANIEL WILLS, of Northamptonshire, England, the progenitor of the Wills family, came to Burlington, N. J., in the ship Kent, in 1677, and was among the first settlers at Burlington; and was one of the London Commissioners. He located his claim of six hundred acres on the "Rancocas River," and named the township after the place he lived in in England. He was born in 1633; married Elizabeth (first wife) 1655; died 3-20, 1698. Elizabeth died 1-6, 1661. His children were James, Daniel and John, by his first wife Elizabeth; by his second wife Mary, he had the following: Samuel, Mary, Joseph, Elizabeth and Ann, the latter born 10th mo. 1st, 1677, after their arrival in Burlington, New Jersey. He appears to have been a man corresponding to the title he bore, and was probably as well read up in his profession, and as well qualified to practice the healing art, as any of his contemporaries. His outfit, still in possession of some of his descendants, comprising surgical instruments, a large work on Materia Medica, called "Herbal" (remedies greatly in vogue in his day), and his medicine chest, indicate that he was prepared for any emergency that might arise—from the amputation of a limb to the administering of pharmaceutical remedies. He and Dr. John Goslin settled in Burlington, but subsequently removed to his claim on the Rancocas River. It also appears that he was a man qualified for municipal as well as other official business; being chosen one of the London Commissioners, and took an active part in the affairs of the city and province. He went to Barbadoes to settle his brother William's estate, was taken sick, died, and was buried there in the Friends' burying ground.

<sup>2</sup>Mary, born 1670; married, 5-8, 1691, Thomas Olive.<sup>1</sup>

married, 1696, Robert Ever.<sup>2</sup>

COPY OF DR. DANIEL WILLS' WILL.

I, Daniel Wills, of Northampton, in the County of Burlington, being in my sixty-five years of age, and truly sensible of the goodness of the Lord, and of His merciful dealings with me unto this day, which causeth me at this time, in true humility, to make mention of His name in this my last will. Imprimis—I give my soul to God, and my body to be buried at the discretion of my executor hereof; and that earthly estate which God in His kindness intrusted me with, and made me steward of, I dispose of it as followeth: Item—My will is that all my debts that I truly owe, be paid by my executor without fraud. Item—I do give unto my son, James Wills, all that lot of land on which he now liveth; and has built his house upon the same; and also fifty acres of land in the town bounds, long since surveyed unto him, which I had no occasion to make mention of here, only he never had any conveyance from me of these lands, which I now give to him and his heirs forever. Item—I do give to my son, Daniel Wills, the negro boy Will, which he hath and standeth in my books indebted to me for, either to keep or to dispose of as he thinks convenient; I also give Daniel, my son, all that he standeth in debt to me for in my books, be it more or less; I also give my son, Daniel Wills, the reversion of half of my quarter part of a property, which will fall in the third taking up of lands, if any be; and of the rest of it. I do give unto my son, John Wills, all that tract of land belonging and appertaining to me on which he now dwells; with all the buildings which were built upon it before he came to live upon it. That which he has built since, he has been at the charge of for the most therefor; I write in this manner therefore as above. All that tract of land which really belonged to me before my son John came to dwell (there), and all the buildings then built thereupon, I do give unto him to keep and dispose of as he pleaseth. Item—I give unto my grandson, John Wills, son to James Wills, of Burlington, my fifty acres of land in the town bounds, surveyed to me, lying near the brick kills; I say I give him that fifty acres of land, to him and his heirs forever. Item—I give to Mary Ewer, my daughter, a book of chyrurgery, called Cimbro's Parry. Item—I give my youngest daughter, Ann Wills, one hundred and eight pounds, to be paid by my executor at or upon the first day of the tenth month, called December, which will be in the year one thousand six hundred and ninety-eight; the reason of the eight pounds being mentioned is for the interest for one year, and for every year till paid. I also give to my daughter Ann, our great brass skillet, and my watch, with all that I formerly gave her, which she has in her possession, or any that is out of her possession that I have formerly given her. Item—My books, any of them Mary shall desire, or Ann, or any of my sons, to keep for a time to read, my will is that my son John shall lend them, or any of them; but to be returned to him again, excepting son John shall be willing to dispose of any of them, then let any of my children have the refusal. Item—I give unto my son, John Wills, all my real and personal estate, whom I make my sole executor; and do appoint him to pay all my just debts, and to receive all that is justly due to me; I say, I do give him all my lands, except what is before given by me in this, my last will, either in surveys or in revision to be taken up belonging to me; I say to him, his heirs forever.

For the full performance of this, my last will and testament, which I do hereby publish and declare this to be my last will, and is the true meaning of my heart and mind and is unalterable; and for the confirmation of the same I hereunto set my hand and fixed my seal, the five and twentieth day of the first month, commonly called March, in the year one thousand six hundred and ninety-eight (1698).

DANIEL WILLS. [D. W.]

Signed and sealed in the presence of Christopher Wetherill, Joseph Smith.

Proved the 20th of March, 1700, before Thomas Lambert, Francis Davenport, and proved anew before J. Basse, the 25th of July, 1715.

Copied from the Record, compared and examined by me, Samuel Bustill.

The residue of my estate I give to my daughters' children, to be divided, viz., to the children of my daughter, Hope Lippincott, one equal fifth part. Freedom, her eldest son, being dead, my will is, that his share shall go to his son Abel. To the children of my daughter Elizabeth Lippincott, another one-fifth part, to be divided equally among them, excepting Samuel, before otherwise provided for. To the children of my daughter Ann, which she had by Jonathan Ladd, another fifth part, viz., to the two eldest, Elizabeth and Samuel, ten pounds apiece, and the remainder to Jonathan. Item—I do hereby will and order that my old negro woman Jenney, have her being, and be provided for by my grandson, Daniel Wills, on my plantation, in consideration whereof I do give him the labor and service of my wench Rose, as long as old Jenny liveth. Lastly, I do hereby appoint, ordain and constitute my son-in-law, Samuel Lippincott, sole executor to this, my last will and testament, and I do hereby revoke and make void all former wills and testaments made by me. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this seventeenth day of the ninth month, A. D. 1745.

Very little is known of the early history of the Wills family in England, prior to the emigration of Friends in 1677. Dr. Daniel Wills early embraced the religious tenets as set forth by George Fox, and was several times imprisoned in Northampton gaol, for holding meetings in his house according to the established order of Friends.

In Northamptonshire "Notes and Queries," reference is made to an address written by Dr. Daniel Wills to Rev. M. Ford, of the Established Church of England, which is said to have been sharp, vigorous and logical on religious subjects. Dr. Wills was no doubt a man of strong and earnest convictions, and for conscience sake, fearless of the magistracy in promulgating the religious tenets he embraced. He was born in Northampton, England, in 1633, and undoubtedly of good parentage, to fit him for the medical profession; and was possessed of means and executive ability that brought him to the front in the land of his adoption. He seems to have been a man of great physical, as well as intellectual ability, from the arduous duties, both professional and municipal, that were called for at his hands.

One branch of the New Jersey Evans family spell their name with the letter "e," instead of the letter "a," which is undoubtedly wrong, from the fact that the name originated in Wales (from whence the family came), and from the five sons of Ievan, known as Evan Robert Lewis, who, in 1601, was living in Wales, England, taking for themselves, in the Welsh manner, the surname of ap Evan.

They were John ap Evan, Cadwalader ap Evan, Griffith ap Evan, Owen ap Evan and Evan ap Evan.

The errors in the orthography of names of persons, as well as places, are frequently traceable to clerical errors, as we not infrequently find the name in the same legal instrument written differently two, and even three times; and in marriage records it would seem that the phonetic system was very frequently adopted or adhered to, as the orthography of the name was scarcely recognizable. The name Engle we find written Ingall, and Evans written Ivans, which would seem more proper, from the manner in which they are pronounced. It appears that the rules of orthography were not in early days in this country very strictly enforced, as the names of persons in legal instruments, wills, deeds, etc., were written differently from the signatures.

FIRST GENERATION AND CHILDREN.

THOMAS GARDINER, the progenitor of the family in New Jersey, came from London and settled at Burlington, New Jersey. He was a man of considerable estate, and one of the most prominent identified with the Society of Friends. He was not the first of that name that came to America, but was probably of the same family who came to New England, as they were Friends, and suffered persecution from the hands of the magistrates for their mode of worship. He built one of the first houses within the precincts of Burlington, which was of logs, but large and commodious; and in it the Friends held their meetings and solemnized the marriages in the society until a place of worship was established, in 1685. He took a very active and prominent part in the affairs of the city and Province. He was a member of the first provincial legislature, and a member of the Governor's Council; and was successively and continually in office and official business until, from age and declining health, he was compelled to relinquish all business, and died in 1694, leaving a widow and several children. At Burlington monthly meeting, in the third month, 1681, it was agreed upon to establish a yearly meeting, and the meeting assembled on the 28th of the sixth month, 1681, at the house of Thomas Gardiner, in Burlington, and continued its sessions four days.

TROTH FAMILY.

TROTH FAMILY.

“WILLIAM TROTH, the progenitor of the Troth family, came from England and settled in Evesham Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, on what is known as the Engle farm, on the line of the Medford and Haddonfield Railroad, at Elmwood station. Soon after William's arrival in the land of his adoption, a young woman came by the name of Elizabeth Field, to whom, no doubt, he was betrothed before he left his native land, as they were joined in wedlock upon her arrival. Her family was possessed of great wealth, and for some reason unknown in the family, unless it was the difference in the worldly prospects of the two families, were opposed to the marriage of their daughter; and for the consummation of the union it was necessary for them to remove to a foreign clime, consequently they came to the wilds of America.”

Tradition says, “In order to accomplish her intention she was necessitated to dispose of her jewelry to procure the requisite means to defray the expenses incident to her journey, as her family refused to supply her with the necessary means.” With that tenacity of purpose characteristic of women, she applied herself diligently to assist her “Will” in his work on the plantation, and they reared a family of children and surrounded themselves with all things needful.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

"Friends" at Burlington, New Jersey, held their "Religious Meetings" under a "Tent" covered with "Sail Cloth" until John Woolston finished his house. This was the first frame house built at Burlington, and in this house and that of Thomas Gardiner they held their meetings until a house for "Worship" was erected, which was not for several years thereafter. Thirteen couples passed meeting and were married before the year 1681.

The first Yearly Meeting of "Friends" was held at Burlington, 6 mo. 28th, 1681, in the house of Thomas Gardiner.

This Yearly Meeting consisted of the meetings at Shrewsbury, Salem, Burlington and Ancocas, on the east side of the Delaware River, and Shackamaxon, near the falls of the Delaware, and Chester, on the west side of the Delaware River.

The first meeting of "Friends" in New Jersey was held at Shrewsbury, in 1670. At Salem, in 1675. "Friends Meetings" were occasionally held at Spicer's, near Cooper's Creek. The first meeting house at Chester (Moorestown), was built of stone, in 1720, by John Cadwalader, a Friend, who was with John Estang in the Island of Tortula, in 1742, and both died there. Meetings were first held at Evesham in 1695, and in the same year joined to Newton Monthly Meeting.

Thomas Story was born in Cumberland, England, in the year 1666. He was an eminent minister of the Society of Friends. He visited the United States in 1698.

While here on his religious visit, he married the daughter of Edward Shippen, of Philadelphia, returned to his home, in Cumberland, England, and died in 1742, and was buried at Carlisle. In 1700, Thomas Story visited "Adams Meeting," held at Moorestown—came by water—thirteen miles from Philadelphia. On his return to Philadelphia he stayed all night at the Widow Spicer's, at Cooper's Creek. He was a minister nearly fifty years.

In the first volume of "Records of Men's Monthly Meetings of Friends at Burlington," New Jersey, in 1684-5, we find the names of Benjamin Moore and Joseph Haines subscribing a portion of lumber toward building a meeting house at Burlington. Date of subscribing, 1st mo. 2d, 1684-5. This Joseph Haines was of the New England branch of the Haines family, but we find no record of his locating in New Jersey.

Robert Mifflin and Ann, his wife, of Nottinghamshire, England, arrived at Burlington, N. J., in the year 1678; this being the first ship that ever came so high up the Delaware River. They came in "the good ship the 'Shields,' of Stockton," with Mahlon Stacy, Thomas Lambert and many other families of repute. The ship "Griffith" arrived in 1675, stopped at Salem, and the ship "Kent" came in the year 1677, landed at Chester, and the passengers went up to Burlington in small boats. Robert and Ann Mifflin's children were Mary, born 2d mo. 4th, 1674; married Daniel Smith, of Burlington. Robert, born in England; died young. John, born in America, died young. William, born 1681, and Johannah, born 1684.

Woodbridge Township was created December 11th, 1666, and confirmed by deed December 3d, 1667. On June the 1st, 1669, a charter was granted and "thankfully accepted." Tract six miles square into one township and to comprise not less than sixty families, and that number not to be exceeded unless by special order of the town.

Fifty-seven persons received patents from the proprietors in the year 1670 for lands within the bounds of the township, and most of them actual settlers. In the list of those who received patents is the name of Jonathan Haynes, of Newbury, Massachusetts, whose title is dated 1673. Jonathan Haynes did not remain in the Province; whether he returned to Newbury, this record does not say.—William A. Whitehead's Early History of Perth Amboy.

Mary Compton, daughter of William Compton and Mary, was the first child born in Woodbridge, in November, 1668. She married Caleb Campbell, January 1st, 1695-6, and died February 15th, 1735. Her grave is still marked by a "Head Stone," recording the fact above stated. Her age being 67 years 3 months.

The land for the "Chester" Meeting (Moorestown) was purchased of James and Esther Adams, in 1700, and was called "Adams Meeting," and after several years it was called "Chester Meeting." James Atkinson and George Smith were collectors of money for "Adams Meeting" in 1690. Thomas and James Atkinson came to Philadelphia in 1682.

Robert Zane married Alice Alday, an Indian girl. The certificate bears date the 10th day of the 2d month, A. D. 1679, and is recorded in the Book of Marriage Certificates. Witnessed by Daniel Wills, Mary Wills, Thomas Eves, Robert Powell, John Woolston, and ten other names to the certificate.

---

Thomas Thorn and John Thorn came from Long Island and settled in New Jersey. They married sisters, daughters of John Hinchman and Sarah Harrison, of Long Island. Thomas bought land of Thomas Cole and James Wild, at "Cole's Hill." Thomas built a brick house on the property in 1742. Thomas and John had many slaves. Thomas' son Thomas married Abigail Burrough in 1759, and she died in 1794. Thomas' daughter Sarah married Jacob Burrough. John Thorn settled southeast of Haddonfield. His wife died, and he married the widow of John Gill, a daughter of Joseph Heritage. Richard Heritage came from Sutton, Brayles, Gloucestershire, England, and settled on the Pennsauken Creek.

Edward Shippen, a native of England, emigrated to Massachusetts and settled at Boston about 1669. He was a member of the Society of Friends, and was driven from Boston by persecution. He removed to Philadelphia, of which city he became one of the first movers.

---

Caleb Haines, son of John Haines and Esther Bourton, who married Sarah Burr, the daughter of Henry Burr and Elizabeth Wills, removed from Haddonfield, 12th mo., 11th, 1744, to Burlington monthly meeting, with two daughters, Elizabeth and Patience.

John Woolston, of Burlington, N. J., a native of England, married Hannah Cooper, his second wife, the only daughter of William Cooper and Margaret, of "Pyne Point," in 1681, and died in 1713, without making a will: and under the then existing laws of the colony his eldest son, John, inherited all his real estate. William Cooper and his family came from Cole's Hill, in the Parish of Amersham, Hertfordshire, England, in 1680.

Thomas Olive and Daniel Wills (Dr. Daniel Wills the first) sold to Thomas Eves the land that Thomas Eves sold to his son Thomas, in 1699, in Evesham, near the "Green Tree." Thomas the first deeded it to his son, Thomas the second, in 1699. Thomas Eves deeded it to his brother, John Eves, in 1702. John Eves deeded it back to his brother, Thomas Eves, in 1716. Thomas Eves, the heir-at-law of Thomas Eves, deeded it to Caleb Lippincott, 3d mo. 25th, 1757.

Joseph Haines, son of Nehemiah Haines and Abigail, makes the following note: "John Haines, the eldest son of Richard Haines and Margaret, located and settled on this land where I now live, and settled his son Jonathan on the north side of the run, or stream of water that runs through the meadows. In digging marl, about the year 1830, above the public highway, we dug out the old well. It appeared to have been walled with slabs. We found in the bottom of the well an old pewter dish, a knife and a fork. The said Jonathan Haines built the frame part of this house about one hundred and twelve years back, or about the year 1720, and settled. He devised the farm to his son Jonathan Haines. The latter part of this information I received from my father, Nehemiah Haines."

---

Samuel Burrough—thought to be a son of Edward Burrough, a distinguished "Quaker," in England—came to Gloucester, and his first purchase of land was in 1698, of Joseph Heritage, about three hundred acres of land on the Pensauken Creek. He married Hannah, the daughter of John and Sarah Roberts, in 1699. In 1699, he purchased land adjoining his first purchase, and in 1703, he purchased of Richard Bromley two hundred acres, also adjoining, and there settled. His will bears date 1720, and was proved in 1732, the year he died. His son John married Phebe Haines, the daughter of John Haines and Esther Borton, and went to Goshen, Pennsylvania. John died, and Phebe married Nathan Willits.

Richard Haines, the son of Richard Haines and Margaret, located and settled on land adjoining his brother, John Haines, on the north, about three miles north by east of Medford, and there lived and died. He gave the farm to his son, Carlile Haines. Carlile gave it to his son John conditionally. John bought out the conditional bequest and gave it to his daughter Mary (the homestead part), who married Core Haines. It then was given to their son, Mark Haines, who sold it to John Brown, and was owned by him in 1866. The Haines family burying ground was on this farm, and there the Haines family were laid away for three generations.

An extract from a letter of John Haines, of Totness, Devonshire, England, to A. M. Haines, of Galena, Illinois: "With regard to the present family of Haineses, in Devonshire, we do not muster very strong. My grandfather being the only son, he left six sons, of which my father, Capt. Haines, R. N., was the only surviving one for many years. Those six sons have only eight sons between them, and their descendants are still diminished in number. I have only one son and daughter. My cousin William—captain in Her Majesty's service—only one. My cousin William, a captain in the Cunard Line, two sons. There are many persons of the same name, not a great number, but who spell their names different from us, although I believe them to be remotely connected. I am sorry I cannot give you any further information as to the family of Haineses. As it appears to me, when reverses of fortune took place, the genealogy of the family was forgotten. It has given me great pleasure to have heard from you, and the claim of kindred has been heard and felt across the waters. I hope this will not be the last communication I shall have from you. As I said before, we all feel a great interest in our trans-Atlantic brethren."

I remain, my dear sir, yours truly,

JOHN HAINES.

August 27th, 1873.

"P. S.—Will you kindly send your photograph when you write." The above copy of the letter was kindly furnished my nephew, George Haines, by A. M. Haines, of Galena, Illinois.

He returned to Philadelphia in January, 1787, having in the meantime inherited a large fortune by the death of his father, and commenced practice. In 1789, he was elected Professor of Chemistry, and in 1808, of Anatomy, in the University, which acquired a high reputation as a medical school from his exertions and distinguished position, he being regarded in Europe, as well as in his own country, as one of the first medical authorities of his time.

He was elected, July 20th, 1787, a member, and January the 6th, 1815, President of the American Philosophical Society, and so continued until his death, January the 22d, 1818, contributing several articles to the "Transactions." His chief production is a system of anatomy, 2 vols., 8vo., 1814. He enjoyed a genial reputation in addition to his scientific honors, and the gatherings of his friends every Saturday, at his own residence, have since his death been continued on the same evening of the week by the survivors and their successors, each taking his turn as host.—Taken from Cyclopedia of American Literature, in 1856.

P. S.—I matriculated in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in November, 1817.

Captain Eleazer Rosebrook, a native of Massachusetts, born in the year 1747, in the Town of Grafton, married Hannah Haines and settled permanently in Monadnuc, which is now Colebrook, thirty miles from any inhabitant and with no path or road to their cabin but "spotted trees."

Eleazer walked eighty miles to Haverhill to procure a bushel of salt, which he carried through the woods the whole distance. He died 9th mo. 27th, 1817, with cancer of the lip.

In the Graveyard of the Baptist Church, at Jacobstown, is a stone which marks a mound lying due west and east, and which contains all that was mortal of an Indian squaw. The inscription is, "Lizzie Estell, 1751." The stone was set up by the trustees of the church, and it marks the first interment in that ground.

Revel's Book, page 69. Surveyed for John Haynes one scroll of land abutting on the south side of the south branch of Northampton River, and from a white oak thereby marked it runs southwest 80 chains to a white oak for a second corner; thence northwest 25 chains to a black oak for a third corner; thence northeast again to the said river, by Benjamin Moore's land, so up by the said river to the first corner. Surveyed for 200 acres, 11th mo., 1683, by Daniel Leeds.

This is the first survey made by John Haines and where he settled, which is still in the possession of his descendants, and which has passed down from father to son by will, never having been conveyed by deed. This survey included the mill site.

Timothy Matlack, Samuel Cole, Robert Hunt, John Garwood, John Haines and Abraham Eldridge, left Evesham and removed to Culpepper, Virginia, with their families, and settled there. Tradition says John Haines was a "tanner."

Jonathan Haines, of Haverhill, Massachusetts, and his four children—Mary, Thomas, Jonathan and Joseph—were captured by the Indians. The children were in a field, near Bradley's mills, picking beans, and the father was reaping near by. The Indians immediately started with their captives for Pemacook (Concord). When they arrived they divided their prisoners and separated, one party taking the father and Joseph, and the other the remaining children. The first party started for their homes, in Maine, where they soon arrived. Their prisoners remained with them but a short time, when they improved the opportunity to escape. After travelling two or three days, with scarcely anything to satisfy their craving appetites, the old man sank down exhausted. Finding his efforts to encourage his father were vain, the son started onward, and soon after coming to the top of a hill, he climbed a tall tree, to see if he could discover any signs of civilization. But no such joyful sight was his. After the first bitter gush of grief had passed, and while he yet hesitated which course to take, his quick ear caught the sound of a saw mill. He listened, there was no mistaking that familiar sound, and with a glad heart and bounding step he followed it, and soon found himself at the settlement of Saco. His story was soon told, and with ample assistance and a bottle of milk, he hastened back to his father, whom he found as he had left him—laid down to die without the hope or expectation of ever again looking upon the face of a friend. The milk and the good news revived him, and with considerable difficulty he reached Saco. Here they remained until their strength was sufficiently recruited, when they started for Haverhill, where they soon after arrived without further difficulty. The party which took the other children went to Canada, where they were sold to the French. As the tradition is that Mary was carried to Canada on a hand sled, we presume the Indians tarried at Pemacook until winter. Mary was redeemed the following winter with one hundred pounds of tobacco. She afterward married John Preston, of Andover, and moved to Connecticut. She was living in Windham County, October 12th, 1730, as appears by the signature to a deed of that date. The boys never returned. A deed of 1731 speaks of them as still in Canada. In one of the companies of the Canada expedition of 1757 were three brothers named Haynes from this town (Haverhill). While in Canada they had leave granted to make search for the captive brothers, and they found them. They had lost their mother language completely, and could only converse with their English relatives through an interpreter. One of them inquired about his sister, who had one of her fingers cut off accidentally by a young lad, the son of a neighbor, a short time before the capture. He recollected the circumstances and asked if she was still living. Neither of them could be persuaded to return to their relatives.

From information furnished by Guy C. Haynes, of East Boston, a native of Haverhill, we have the following: Children of Jonathan (above) and Sarah Haynes. Mary, born November 14th, 1677; Thomas, born May 14th, 1680; Jonathan, born September 3d, 1684; Margaret, born March 3d, 1687; Joseph, born August 4th, 1689; Ruth, born February 10th, 1692; Elizabeth, born March 22d, 1697.

From a petition to the Governor and Council, April 17th, 1701, it appears their two children were missing—Jonathan Haynes, aged 12 years, and Joseph Haynes, aged 7 years. They were taken August 15th, 1696.

February 22d, 1698, a party of Indians returning from a foray into Andover, where they killed five and captured as many more, passing through West Haverhill, killed Jonathan Haynes and Samuel Ladd, and captured a son of each. Haynes and Ladd, who lived in the western part of the town, had started that morning with their teams, consisting of a yoke of oxen and a horse, and accompanied by their eldest sons, Joseph and Daniel, to bring home some of their hay which had been cut and stacked the preceding summer in their meadow in the extreme western part of the town. While they were slowly returning, little dreaming of present danger, they suddenly found themselves between two files of Indians, who had concealed themselves in the bushes on each side of their path. There were seven of them on a side, with guns presented and cocked; and the fathers seeing it was impossible to escape, "begged for quarter." To this the Indians twice replied, "boon quarter, boon quarter." Young Ladd, who did not relish the idea of being quietly taken prisoner, told his father that he would mount the horse and endeavor to escape, but the old man forbade him to make the attempt, telling him it was better to risk remaining a prisoner. He cut his father's horse loose, however, and giving him the lash, he started off at full speed, and though repeatedly fired at by the Indians, succeeded in reaching home, and was the means of giving an immediate and general alarm. Two of the Indians then stepped behind the fathers and dealt them a heavy blow upon the head. Mr. Haynes, who was quite aged, instantly fell, but Ladd did not. Another of the savages then stepped before the latter and raised his hatchet as if to strike. Ladd closed his eyes, expecting the blow would fall, but it came not, and when he again opened them, he saw the Indian laughing and mocking at his fears. Another immediately stepped behind him and felled him at a blow. The Indians, on being asked why they killed the men, said that they killed Haynes because he was "so old he no go with us," meaning that he was too aged and infirm to travel; and that they killed Ladd, who was a fierce, stern looking man, because "he so sour."

They then started for Pemacook, where they arrived with the two boys. Young Ladd soon grew weary of his situation, and one night, after the Indian master and family had fallen asleep, he attempted to escape. He had proceeded but a short distance, when he thought he should want a hatchet to fell trees to assist him in crossing the streams. He accordingly returned, entered a wigwam, near him master's, where an old squaw lay sick, and took a hatchet. The squaw watched his movements, and, probably thinking that he intended to kill her, vociferated with all her strength. This awakened the Indians in the wigwam, who instantly arose, recaptured him and delivered him again to his master, who bound his hands, laid him upon his back, fastened one of his feet to a tree, and in that manner kept him fourteen nights. They then gashed his face with their knives, filled the wounds with powder, and kept him on his back until it was so indented in the flesh that it was impossible to extract it. He carried the scars to his grave, and is now frequently spoken of by his descendants as the "marked man." Some years after he found means to return, and his scarred and powdered countenance produced many witticisms at his expense. He was one day walking the streets of Boston, and a parrot, observing his marked features, vociferated, "a rogue, a rogue."

Haynes remained a prisoner some years, and was at last redeemed by his relatives. When he was about leaving the Indians, his master, in token of his good will and esteem, presented him his best cane. This cane is now in the possession of Guy C. Haynes, a descendant. The upper half is neatly ornamented with diamond shaped figures cut with a knife.

On the roll of the Second Foot Company of Haverhill, Major Richard Saltsenstall, Esq., is Captain. April 14th, 1757, appear the names of Joseph Haynes, David Haynes, Ammi Ruhamy Haynes. This company embraces all liable to military duty in the West Parish.

On received news of Montcalm's movements to besiege Fort William Henry, a detachment from each of the three Haverhill companies was sent forward to the relief of the Fort. They marched as far as Worcester, August, 1757. In the detachment of the Second Company were David Haynes, Joseph Haynes and Ammi R. Haynes.

Joseph Haynes was one of the delegates from Haverhill to the County Convention at Ipswich, September 6th and 7th, 1774, when a series of resolutions were adopted in regard to the convening of a Provincial Congress; and he and Samuel White were, in October, chosen delegates to the Provincial Congress, which convened at Salem, October 7th, and adjourned to Concord and then to Cambridge (the first Congress).

James Wills purchased of Stephen Wanton a large tract of land in Evesham Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, near Marlton, and is the same tract of land through which a small stream of water runs, called "Noel's Run," taking its name from its owner, Noel Mew, who lived with his Indian wife upon part of the tract. James Wills (above alluded to), who was the son of Daniel Wills the second and Margaret Newbold, his wife, and grandson of Dr. Daniel Wills, the progenitor of the Wills family, and Elizabeth, his first wife, conveyed to his son, Micajah Wills, several hundred acres of the above tract, upon which he settled, and is known as the homestead of that branch of the Wills family in Evesham Township, part of the same still being in possession of his descendants, which has passed down from father to son by will and inheritance. From records it appears to be a part of the tract of land conveyed by William Penn and others to Richard Mew (the father of Noel Mew), Francis Collins and Richard Bull, on June the 1st, 1677. Richard Mew became the sole owner and his son, Noel Mew, inherited it and divided it between his children, among whom was a daughter Mary, who married Michael Wanton, who were the parents of Stephen Wanton, who inherited it. Zebedee Wills, son of the above Micajah Wills and Rebecca Hewlings, his wife, became possessed of several hundred acres of the above tract by the will of his father—married Priscilla Moore and settled upon it. He devised a part of it to his son Zebedee M. Wills, and a part to the children of his son, Joab Wills. Zebedee Wills (first above mentioned) was an influential citizen, a man of excellent judgment, and a staunch member of the Society of Friends. He was a man firm in his convictions, not given to compromise, and it is jocularly said of him, when he and "Mire" Haines, a man of similar attributes, happened to be chosen upon a jury, "if they didn't think alike, the jury would never come to an end."

John Sharp, the eldest of the three brothers, sons of William Sharp, who came from Northamptonshire, England, located a tract of land of "twelve hundred and fifty acres," in what was at that time Evesham Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, a part of which said tract of land is now in Medford Township, upon which he settled, and is known as the homestead site of the Sharp family; the same having been occupied by his descendants down to the sixth generation. Some parts of the tract still remain in the possession of the Sharp family, the greater portion, however, has passed out of the possession of the family, as have nearly all tracts of land located by the progenitors of the different families, who were the emigrant settlers. A small stream of water which heads upon this tract, and runs through a portion of it, emptying into the south branch of the Rancocas Creek north of the village of Medford, is known as Sharp's Run, and derives its name from that family. From records, it seems that this tract greatly exceeded the number of acres called for in the location, as it extended east as far as the land located by the Haines family, and as far west as the land of Thomas Ballinger, the progenitor of the Ballinger family. The extent of this tract from north to south is not definitely known by the writer, but from some records it must have covered a very large scope of land, which, as we find in all surveys located, greatly exceeded the number of acres mentioned or called for. From official records we find that John Sharp was a man prominent in the estimation of his neighbors, being frequently called upon to transact business for others in various ways—as executor, settling business between individuals, &c. A man that appears to have had the confidence and esteem of those in his neighborhood.

The first land located by the Haines family was located by John Haines, the eldest son of Richard Haines and Margaret, his wife (the progenitors of the Haines family), page 69, Revels Book—"Surveyed then for John Haines one scroll of land abutting on the south side of the south branch of Northampton River and from a white oak thereby marked, it runs southwest 80 chains to a white oak for a second corner; thence northwest 25 chains to a black oak for a third corner; thence northeast, again to said river, by Benjamin Moore's land, so up by the said river to the first corner. Surveyed for 200 acres, 11 mo., 1683, by Daniel Leeds." John married in 1684, and built a dwelling house and settled on this land. He built a house on the north side of the run on this land, and settled his son Jonathan there. Jonathan built an addition to the house in 1720, which is still standing, and devised the property to his son Jonathan. Jonathan devised the same to his son Nehemiah, and Nehemiah devised it to his son Joseph, and Joseph devised it to his son George, and George devised it to his widow Edith, in whose possession it is at this present writing. This property having passed down from father to son, from the location of it by John Haines, to the present time.

The original location included the mill site of the mills now known as Kirby's Mills, and remained in the family till sold to Allen Garwood by some of the heirs of Charles Haines, the son of Nehemiah Haines above. The first saw mill was built by the above John Haines, and devised to his sons, Josiah and Caleb. The first grist mill was built by Jonathan Haines the second, his son Isaac Haines and Samuel Phillips. Jonathan devised his third equal part to his son, Nehemiah.

The first saw mill in this locality (Medford Township), was built at Chairville (the foundation of the mill is still to be seen), by Jonathan Haines and Richard Haines, on Haines Creek, which commences in Bear Swamp and runs down to Peacock's, late Haines' saw mill, and empties into the Northampton River a few hundred yards above Belly Bridge, near Eayrestown, below the head of tide water, and used it till 1730, when they sold the land and mill site, having built a mill at Friendship a few years before. "John Peacock was sawyer at Haines' Creek Mill till Friendship Mill was built, then John was sawyer at Friendship, and his wife at Haines' Creek Mill, and sawed more than John." Richard Haines located and settled on land adjoining his brother John on the north, and devised the homestead site to his son, Carlisle Haines; Carlisle devised it to his son John, and John devised the homestead part to his daughter Mary, who married Core Haines, who devised it to their son Mark, who sold it to John Brown. It is now owned by Charles Ballinger, 1901.
